Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 229 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Published by Floricanto and Berkeley Presses, Everything We Think We Hear is a collection of prose poems and flash fictions in the tradition of the Latin American microcuento. At turns fabulistic and true to life, these short pieces tell stories about growing up in and out of South Texas and about the role family mythology has in relating to the world. Through experiences articulated via poetic prose, this collection presents storytelling as a way to understand the universal through the personal. What is the meaning beyond memory's hauntings? How does one survive the multi-faceted self fashioned from such meanings? Poet Jose Angel Araguz unflinching collection, Everything We Think We Hear, considers these questions from all angles and gives us answers as adamant and brilliant as the prose poems he has fashioned in his questing. Sarah Cortez, Councilor, Texas Institute of Letters, Author of Cold Blue Steel. Jose Angel Araguz balances the beauty and agony of a man siphoning love from beer bottles, sparse mother-son conversations, a stern Tia's throw, and the weathered memories of an absent father. This collection, where a boy who couldn't dream becomes a man making communion with all he knows, insists you gaze on lo raro, the sour-pickled and scattered parts of a soul who refuses to ignore the song of the broken even when surrounded by splendor. Peggy Robles-Alvarado, author of Homenaje a las guerreras. In Jose Angel Araguz's collection, Everything We Think We Hear, todo se vale, everything goes! This book plays with our senses and forces us to consider what we think we hear, what we think we are reading. A fierce voice that...
