Not illustrated. 1823 Excerpt: .feelings of satisfaction and happiness with which I have witnessed the almost miraculous delivery of the inhabitants of this district from the horrors of famine and pestilence. In the month of May last, I saw this whole population bearing every mark of hunger in their debilitated frames. I knew that the means of subsistence did not exist in the country, and I did not conceive it possible that relief could be administered either in time or in quantity, sufficient to save numbers from perishing; but I have now the happiness of seeing those very people in the full vigour of strength, and without, to my knowledge, the loss of one single life from want of food. The promptitude with which the people of England answered the call of charity, and the celerity with which your Committee organised the distribution of the funds to the most distant points, were truly wonderful. These funds were the first which reached this part of the country; and my firm belief is, that that first distribution did save many lives. At a Meeting of the Nobility, Clergy, and Freeholders of the County of Kerry, 22d October, 1822, The High Sheriff presiding, Resolved, --That the grateful thanks of the County of Kerry, assembled pursuant to requisition by the High Sheriff, be returned to our illustrious fellow-subjects of Great Britain, who, in the late calamitous sufferings of the south and west of Ireland, promptly pressed forward, and with splendid and unparalleled munificence saved...
