Constantius Chlorus had a Christian concubine, the mother of Constantine, and known as Saint Helena. Caesar Constantius Chlorus died at York, in England, at a time when the children, whom he had by the daughter of Maximilian Hercules, his legitimate wife, could make no pretensions to the empire. Constantine, the son of his concubine, was chosen emperor by six thousand German, Gallician, and British soldiers. This election, made by the soldiery, without the consent of the senate and Roman people, was ratified by his victory over Maxentius, (A.D. 313) chosen emperor at Rome, - and Constantine mounted a throne soiled with murders. An execrable parricide, he put to death the two Licinii, the husband and son of his sister; he did not even spare his own children, and the Empress Fausta, the wife of this monster, was strangled by his orders, in a bath. He then...
